Maturing: In barrels to enhance structure and complexity.

THE TERROIR

In the heart of Burgundy the vineyards of Givry spread across the communes of Givry, Dracy-le-Fort and Jambles in the Côte Chalonnaise. The vines grow at altitudes between 240 and 280 metres in chalky-clay soils on slopes facing east/south-east.

DID YOU KNOW?

The Givry appellation was given official AOC status in February 1946. It had already been considered the main winegrowing commune of the Côte Chalonnaise for a long time but Givry already enjoyed an excellent reputation in the Middle Ages. It is also said that that King Henri IV chose this wine as his favourite. Givry vineyards are mostly planted with Pinot Noir grapes for the red wine (220 hectares) while Chardonnay has only 45 hectares to produce white wine.
